Natural Foodworks Group (NFG) is a full-service, natural & organic food co-packer; Brands that are trying to make it big in the natural & organic world need someone they can count on to deliver the manufacturing, the quality, and the customer service, so that they can focus on the marketing, sales, channel development, and new product development to truly maximize the potential of their brand. With two locations in Denver and one in Louisville, we can be counted on to deliver procurement, demand planning, manufacturing, transportation, warehousing, quality testing, lot code tracking, and certification support for the brands and companies we work with. NFG is also the Rocky Mountain Region's only Avure certified High Pressure Processing (HPP) Tolling Center. HPP extends the shelf life and food safety by using pressure rather than heat or preservative to keep food fresh, safe and healthy for consumers. NFG also has an ancient grain processing facility offering customers a selection of naturally gluten-free flaked grains including, but not limited to quinoa, amaranth and millet.

We build strategic marketing connections for our clients by fully assessing their needs. It starts with a comprehensive marketing plan. This plan provides an integrated strategy that outlines the steps needed to grow our client's business and extend their customer base. Our relationships in the industry benefit our clients by building their branding, and positions them in front of the right stakeholders to take their business or product to the next level.
